FedEx is building a new ground distribution center that will bring nearly 200 jobs to the Metro-East area by the summer of 2014.

Illinois Gov. Pat Quinn on Tuesday announced the shipping company will invest $23.5 million into building the center in Sauget. The facility will create 25 full-time and 150 part-time jobs.

“Illinois is one of the best places to do business in the world,” Quinn said. “[Fed Ex’s] expansion will help our state’s economy continue to recover from the worst recession since the great Depression.”

The 181,000-square-foot distribution center is scheduled to open at Sauget Industrial Parkway in August 2014.

FedEx Ground currently operates 16 facilities in Illinois.

“FedEx Ground is thrilled to join the Sauget community, and we’re grateful to Governor Quinn for his support,” Scott Burns, FedEx Ground regional vice president said. “The site was selected for its ease of access to major highways, its proximity to customers’ distribution centers, and its strong local workforce for recruiting employees.”

Sauget FXG, LLC, a subsidiary of Jones Development Company, LLC, purchased the 32-acre site in April 2013.

JDC will develop the site and lease the newly-constructed building to FedEx Ground.

According to state officials, FedEx Ground will be eligible for state tax credits worth about $459,000 over 10 years if it creates a certain number of local jobs.

Creating new jobs through the FedEx ground distribution center will help many families stay in St. Louis and continue their lives.

Being part of FedEx delivery means delivering a smile!

“Job openings in St. Louis lets my family and me continue our lives in Missouri.” - Louis Jack

Louis has been working in Kentucky while his family has been in Missouri. With the new ground distribution center, Louis can move back home with his family.

FedEx Releases 2014 Global Citizen Report

FedEx Corp. announced today the online release of its 2014 Global Citizenship Report (GCR). Now in its seventh year of publication, the GCR tracks the company's efforts to connect the world in responsible and resourceful ways.

Among the most notable accomplishments detailed in this year's GCR, FedEx made significant strides in its commitment to environmental impacts, saving 100 million gallons of jet fuel at FedEx Express and avoiding more than 976,000 metric tons of carbon emissions. The accomplishments were results from FedEx® Fuel Sense and aircraft modernization programs. Since 2007, Fuel Sense initiatives have collectively saved the company more than 330 million gallons of jet fuel, the equivalent of 500 Olympic-size swimming pools.

"What you see in this report is a testament to the extensive work of more than 325,000 global team members," said Mitch Jackson, vice president of Environmental Affairs and Sustainability, FedEx

Corp. "We connect people and possibilities on six continents, and we work to do so responsibly and resourcefully. Whether that's reducing emissions, improving pedestrian and road safety or using our logistical expertise to help others in times of disaster, we aim to deliver a brighter future and link people to thriving markets and economies."

FedEx connects more than 90% of the world's GDP and has a presence in 220 countries and territories. As represented in its logo, the company moves possibilities forward and applies that concept to its efforts of improving economic development, the environment, communities and people.

Global Citizen Report Highlights

Economic Development

In its fiscal year 2014, FedEx revenue grew by 3% and its operating margin rose to 7.6%. This economic activity creates wealth and opportunity for a wide range of stakeholders. Now in the 10th year of collaboration, FedEx and the U.S. Commercial Service helped provide trade education to more than 72,000 businesses. FedEx also invested $6.5 billion in diverse supplier spending, which includes small, minority and women owned businesses.

Community

FedEx donated its network and logistics expertise to assist in the movement of more than 140 pallets of vital medical supplies to West Africa to counter the recent Ebola outbreak. Collectively, FedEx provided more than 6.7 million pounds of charitable shipping and more than $45 million in charitable contributions.

FedEx Launches Loyalty Program for Small Businesses

FedEx Corp. (NYSE: FDX) today announced the expansion of My FedEx Rewards, a small business loyalty program. My FedEx Rewards builds on the existing loyalty program, opening up participation to all eligible FedEx small business customers that ship or print with FedEx and is free to join.

“Building long-term relationships with our customers is embedded in the FedEx culture,” said Becky Huling, vice president, Customer Engagement. “My FedEx Rewards offers real benefits to our small business customers through special offers and rewards, and we are excited to deepen these important relationships.”

Participants can receive special offers and earn rewards for their eligible FedEx Office purchases and eligible FedEx shipments through FedEx Express®, FedEx Ground® and FedEx Freight®.

“The ability to earn rewards on such a variety of FedEx services is what makes this program really special,” said Huling. “Customers can redeem their offers to select items from an attractive selection of brand-name gift cards and merchandise.”

More than 17,000 Christmas trees go to troops across the country.

Delivering Holiday Joy at Home and Overseas

The Trees for Troops initiative kicks off today in Thorntown, Ind., as FedEx volunteers help prepare nearly 200 live Christmas trees to be shipped to service members stationed overseas. The Christmas trees, donated by members of the Indiana Christmas Tree Growers Association, will be delivered to service members stationed in the Middle East and South Pacific via the FedEx Express hub in Indianapolis.

Once the international deliveries have taken flight, FedEx Freight will hit the road with more than 17,000 fresh-cut Christmas trees to be delivered to U.S. military bases beginning Dec. 1, with final deliveries scheduled for Dec. 13. Many of these deliveries include special holiday festivities in which military families receive their anticipated Christmas tree.
